Blockchain 2024: Chambers Global Practice Guide Publication | Trends and Developments

Piper Alderman Blockchain team Partners, Michael Bacina and Steven Pettigrove, along with Luke Higgins and Jake Huang, have authored the Australian chapters of Blockchain 2024: A Chambers Global Practice Guide, published by Chambers and Partners.

The Piper Alderman Blockchain team is pleased again to be the Australian contributor to Chambers and Partners' annual global guide on Blockchain 2024. The publication compares the law and practice relating to blockchain technology across 17 jurisdictions as well as emerging trends and developments.

The Trends and Developments guide provides a side-by-side comparison of local insights including an overview of the current regulatory environment and tax regime; the proposed regulatory reform agenda across digital assets, payments, stablecoins and tax; and a summary of recent enforcement trends.
